MISCELLANEOUS READING.

UNPARALLELED MEANNESS An individual in this city held an execu tion against another, which was placed in the hands of the Sheriff for the purpose of collecting the claim, but that officer finding no property, it was returned unsatisfied. A short time since, the creditor discovered a small monument at one of the marble yards in the city which had been ordered by the debtor to be placed over the grave of a little child he had recently buried. Forthwith this worthy exemplar of Shylock waited upon the Sheriff and instructed him to levy upon the stone. That officer very properly remonstrated against an act so barbarous and unchristian but without avail. He was threatened with prosecution unless he performed this unpleasant duty, and the stone was accordingly seized and in due time sold. There was no one mean enough to bid upon it but the cre ditor, and it was knocked down to him. A little monument of a little child, with the Memoirs, Letters, and Journals, of Harriet Maria

Jukes, the earnest Christian, 75c. Just published, and for sale by JAS, ENTWISLE & SON.,

> Buffalo Courier. A PRETTY CONCEIT.

We yesterday saw, in the parlor of a friend a very beautiful conceit. It is, of course, the fancy of a lady, and consists of the burr of a pine tree placed in a wine glass half full of water, and from between the different layers of the burr are shooting forth green blades -bright, beautiful, refreshing. For a little thing, we have seen nothing that so pleased us by its beauty and novelty. And the seeret is this: the burr was found dried and open; the different circles were sprinkled with grass seed, and it was placed in a wine glass, with water in as above. In a few days the moisture and nourishment gave the burr life and health; the different circles closed Bulwer's New Novel—What Will He Do With and buried within themselves the grass seed and a few days more gave to the seed also life, sprout and growth; and now a pyramid of living green, beautifully relieved by the sombre hue of the burr, is the result-as pretty and novel a parlor ornament as we have for a long while seen. We do not know whether the idea was original with the lady but we do know that its success is beautiful. -Troy Times.
